PACIFIC TREATY IS SIGNED

Signatures of U. S., Britain, France, Japan Affixed

NOW GOES TO THE SENATE

Four Power Agreement Completed in Six Minutes

U. S. RESERVATION

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — The American reservation attached to the four power treaty, when it was signed today contained a provision that domestic questions of the various powers are not to be considered within the scope of the treaty.

The reservation is in two parts, the first of which declares that the treaty shall in no way be binding as regards the policy of the United States toward the mandated islands of the Pacific.

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — The new quadruple treaty to preserve peace in the Pacific was formally signed today by the plenipotentiaries of the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan.

The signatures were affixed in the ante room of the office of the secretary of state. There was no formal ceremony and no one was present except the plenipotentiaries, their secretaries and advisers.

The American delegates, the first to sign under an alphabetical arrangement of the powers, put their names to the document and affixed their seals a few minutes after 11 o'clock.

U. S. RESERVATION

The approval of the United States was given, however, subject to a written understanding with the Japanese providing that the American-Japanese treaty regarding Yapan must be consummated before the four power arrangement is binding.

Except for this reservation which is expected to be erased within a few days by signature of the Yapan treaty, the new Pacific agreement now requires only parliamentary ratification by the various governments to make it effective.

UP TO SENATE

The American official copy of the document now goes to the White House for transmission by President Harding to the senate. The new pact, it was generally believed today, would be forwarded to the senate within a very short time.

The American delegation began signing at 11:14 a. m. At 11:16 the British followed, Arthur J. Balfour signing twice, once for the British empire and once for the Union of South Africa, which has no delegate here.

The French followed the British, and the Japanese, the last to sign, completed formal approval of the treaty at 11:30 o'clock.

NAVAL PROGRAM

Appointment of the new naval sub-committee of fifteen, including both plenipotentiaries and civil and naval experts of the five powers, in place of the former sub-committee composed exclusively of experts, was regarded today as a step placing the entire naval program of the conference in a process toward final and definite working out of its remaining problems.

Endowment of this committee with direct plenipotentiary powers to make recommendations to the conference through membership of the five delegations, will greatly expedite final action, not only on the ratio question as applying to Japan but also in fixing the ratios for the French and Italian navies under the prospective agreement.

Possible modification of the proposed naval holiday and the question of submarine strength at other points to be settled by the new committee.

After signing the four power agreement with the other French plenipotentiaries and those of the United States, Great Britain and Japan, Mr. Viviani planned to depart for New York today, from where he has arranged to sail for France Wednesday.

The French delegation head, who will be succeeded in that capacity by M. Albert Sarraut, the French minister of the colonies, declared on the eve of his departure that he regarded the Washington conference as "a brilliant success."

Discussion of the important question of control of the Kiao-Chow railway in Shantung will be resumed today in the conversation of the Japanese and Chinese plenipotentiaries. Developments on that phase of the Shantung question during yesterday's discussion were regarded by the Chinese plenipotentiaries as having taken a most promising direction.

TOLEDO DETECTIVE BUREAU INSPECTOR IS SUSPENDED

TOLEDO — F. William Leutz, inspector of the Toledo Detective Bureau, was today suspended on charges of insubordination and incompetency preferred by Police Chief Henry Herbert.

The charges followed publication of an article on the Toledo crime situation in a local weekly magazine which was accredited to Leutz. James O'Reilly, detective attached to the county prosecutor's office, has been assigned temporarily to fill the office left vacant by the suspension of Leutz.

HE HELPS WIFE GET DIVORCE

COUNTRESS OF DROGHEDA

LONDON — "I'm not coming back home. If you want a divorce, you'll find evidence at the Great Central Hotel."

The Earl of Drogheda wrote that to his wife. She followed directions. In court she produced a chambermaid from the hotel who swore she had seen the earl there with a woman not his wife.

So now the countess is free.

HOOCH JAMBOREE HELD IN JAIL

Former Prisoner "Squeals" in O'Connor's Escape at Chicago

ALSO TELLS OF DOPE TRAIL

Officials and Guards Suspended — Six Probes Under Way

CHICAGO — (By Associated Press) — Two more clues to the line of flight of Tommy O'Connor, convicted gunman, who Sunday escaped with two companions from the Cook County jail, were given the police early today and detectives were hurriedly dispatched to investigate.

A telephone call was received from the chief of police at Hartford, Wisconsin, that three men, one resembling O'Connor, had alighted from an early morning train and registered at a small hotel.

Later Edward Hansen of Milwaukee, appeared at the police station and handed a card to Chief of Detectives Hughes, saying it had been given him by one of the five men as he was about to leave Milwaukee for Chicago. An card was written "don't send any one after me. I am innocent. Much obliged to Straus. I will shoot the first man who puts his hands on me."

SIX INVESTIGATIONS

The escape has resulted in six separate investigations of the county jail. Every guard and official in the jail who was connected in any way with the "break" has been suspended and officials have stated serious charges might be filed against some of the men.

The stories told by William Fogarty, a former prisoner, and Paul Gormac, now incarcerated, are due for additional investigation today. Fogarty told of "moonshine jambores" in the jail basement, of the way in which he says O'Connor got his gun, and of the prisoner's "dope trail."

It was Gormac who said he had "inside information" of the jail break some time before it took place.

DOOM SEALED

Only a pardon by the governor or the president can save O'Connor from being executed if taken alive, according to Attorney Lloyd Heth, formerly assistant state's attorney.

Heth said that he would re-appear before Judge Scanlon of the criminal court Thursday and ask that the clerk of the court be instructed to enter on the books that O'Connor is a fugitive from justice.

"That is all that is necessary," said Mr. Heth, "then any time that O'Connor is caught, be it this week or twenty years hence, all that will be necessary will be for the court to fix the date of the hanging."

ROUSH PLANS TO DEFEAT MAYOR IN OUSTER MOVE

Will File Sweeping Denial of Charges

HOLDS EXECUTIVE BIASED

Burkhardt's Investigators in Session Tuesday

Plans for blocking the second removal of Chief of Police O. J. Roush by Mayor Burkhardt were believed to be on foot Tuesday, although no inkling of the procedure to be followed was announced.

That no detailed explanation will be filed with Mayor Burkhardt by Roush was learned at noon. Both Roush and his counsel allege no explanation, no matter how reasonable, or satisfactory, will be considered by Mayor Burkhardt. They are of the opinion that the Mayor will again attempt to remove Roush from office.

BIAS IS ALLEGED

For the reason he believes Burkhardt is biased and will accept no explanation of the 12 complaints, Attorney Melvin Light will content himself with filing a general denial of the charges late Thursday.

The denial had not been prepared at noon Tuesday.

"I may file one," said Light, "and I may not. No explanation in the world would satisfy Mayor Burkhardt."

Light is believed to be centering his efforts on a renewal of the fight in common pleas court. He intimated that he intends checkmating Burkhardt by litigation to show that the mayor is biased and prejudiced.

Roush attempted to secure a hearing of the matter before Burkhardt late Monday. At the time the keys of the station were returned to him, Roush said Burkhardt gave him the preference of talking the complaints over, or filing a written explanation.

Monday, however, Burkhardt backtracked and demanded a full written explanation, Roush asserts.

CANNOT MAKE ANSWER

Demand was made also that the complaints be made specific. As they stand, the defense charges they deal in generalities and no answer can be made.

In answer to criticism that he was seeking to avoid a hearing, Roush stated Tuesday that his reasons for fighting the hearing is based on unwillingness to have Frank H. Downing and Fred W. Zeitz hear his case as judges. Both are prejudiced, he said.

No trial board selected by them as majority of the board will be unprejudiced or unbiased," Roush added.

Members of the old civil service commission pass out with the close of the old year. A new board will be appointed by the city commission. It is not believed either possible or probable that any of the present trio will be reappointed. This may throw Roush's case before a tribunal composed of members not under control of the present administration.

BOARD RESUMES SESSION

A new and interesting angle of the Roush-Burkhardt-Zeitz feud was the meeting Tuesday of the special board which investigated the character and conduct of Chief Roush. Mayor Burkhardt ordered Roush's suspension and removal after the board filed its report. The board made no recommendations and Burkhardt acted on his own initiative.

His action was later knocked out when the court found he had not complied with the law.

Object of resumption of sessions by the board is to go into ramifications of the complaints hitherto untouched. Earl Ludwig, chairman, said. The first session was to be held Tuesday, but no witnesses were to be summoned.

The meeting may have been called, it was stated, to obtain information by which Burkhardt will make his charges more definite, as demanded by the defendant.

DAYTON — John H. Patterson, founder and principal owner of the National Cash Register Company, today celebrated his 77th birthday by sending a message to the company's ten thousand employees in all parts of the world.

The message advised the employees to "keep young by associating with young things. The newspapers are the youngest-born every day."

GOLD FROM LEAD

Carrington Explains How Transmutation May be Made

By HERWARD CARRINGTON, Scientist and Author

WASHINGTON — (Special) — Thomas A. Edison confidently expects the transmutation of lead into gold.

For centuries this has been the quest of man.

In the early seventies, however, Sir William Crookes brought forward certain evidence tending to show that all matter has a common basis, and he proposed a name, "prothyl," for this substance. The idea did not gain great headway, however, until the discovery of radioactivity, which threw an entirely new light upon the constitution of matter.

Until then it had been supposed that the "elements" were simple and indivisible; that the atom was the smallest particle of matter in the universe, and that these atoms represented the "building stones of the Cosmos."

ATOM CAN BE DIVIDED

Studies in radio activity proved that the atom itself is capable of being split up into still smaller particles, known as "electrons," but these electrons are not composed of matter at all, but electricity! Hence arose the modern "electrical theory of matter."

This theory says that all matter is ultimately electrical in basis; that the atom is exceedingly complex in nature, and is built up somewhat like our solar system, with a central nucleus in the middle (like our sun) and a number of particles revolving around it, as our planets revolve around the sun.

The distances between them would be as great, proportionately, as the distances between the various planets and the sun, in our solar system.

The central nucleus, on the modern theory of matter consists in a negative charge of electricity, while the particles revolving round it are charges of positive electricity. These differ in number, and the various "elements" are merely qualities of the atom, due to the differences between the number of the positive charges within the atom itself.

ELEMENTS CAN BE CHANGED

It will thus be seen that, in order to change one element into another, it would only be necessary, theoretically, to alter the number of positive electrons in any given atom. Add or subtract one, two, three or more, and the element changes into another element.

We see this process going on spontaneously in all radioactive elements — when, for instance, for instance, changes into radium, and that in turn into ionium, and so on until it becomes lead, which has been thought to be the "end product."

Hitherto it has been impossible to retard or accelerate these changes artificially, but lately this has been done, on a small scale, by bombarding certain atoms with radium emanations (a terrific energy). Changes in the element have thus been brought about; actual transmutation has been accomplished by Rutherford, Soddy and Ramsey.

CHARLES W. MORSE IS BACK IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON — With Charles W. Morse, shipbuilder, in Washington today, it was anticipated the grand jury would soon act in the matter of his ship contracts.

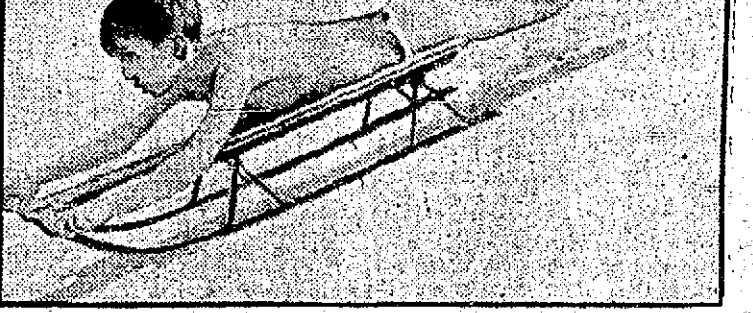

Morse consulted his attorney, Wilton J. Lambert, during the day, relative to the procedure to be taken now and Lambert sought a chance to discuss with District Attorney Gordon the probe of Morse's ship contracts with the shipping board.

Morse contends that there has been nothing dishonest in his business dealings and that the government is still in debt to his enterprise.

DRIFT INTO LEAGUE BY U.S. SEEN BY SWEDISH PREMIER

Harding Plan and World Covenant Mean Same, He Says

If President Harding organizes a series of international conferences, they will merge eventually with the league of nations to work toward the common objective of world peace, Hjalmar Branting, prime minister of Sweden, declares in an article written for The Lima News.

This is the first comment of its kind from the chief cabinet officer of a league of nations member on the achievements of the Washington conference.

(BY HJALMAR BRANTING) (Prime Minister of Sweden)

STOCKHOLM — We, who belong to the league of nations look upon President Harding's initiative as an action for the promotion of world peace parallel to the effort of the league of nations in making with the same object in view.

Success of one, therefore, is in a sense, all success for the other, and if President Harding's initiative were to result in a series of conferences, then it can only be a question of time when a common form will be found for that common work.

PROGRESS MADE

Even those who did not look forward to the conference of the great powers at Washington with too eager expectation are bound to learn with all the more satisfaction of every progress made or seemingly about to be made by the conference toward closer cooperation and a better understanding among those world powers.

At the outset of the conference I despatched a message to President Harding on behalf of the Swedish government expressing a sincere desire that the all-important and far-reaching work of the conference be successful.

MANAGER MAY BE CHOSEN TONIGHT

Commission Meeting Planned; Chairman III

Lima's city commission will meet Tuesday night, provided Harold Cunningham, chairman, who has been suffering from illness for several days, is able to leave his home. It is rumored.

Two members of the commission who have been absent from the city for several days have returned and it is expected some definite action will be taken at tonight's meeting toward naming the city's first manager.

Members of the charter body steadfastly refused to impart information as to who the manager will be. Statements of several commissioners, made after three applicants visited Lima, pointed strongly to Clarence A. Bingham, present city manager of Watertown, N. Y., as the man to be chosen.

Mayor F. A. Burkhardt has engaged a stenographer who is making an inventory of the city's records. Members of the commission have not stated whether they will use the mayor's office as headquarters when the change of administration becomes effective January 1.

Action of definite character in making appointments may be taken at the meeting of the commissioners Tuesday night, it is believed.

TRAPPED BY FIRE IN RESIDENCE

Three Injured When Home Near Detroit is Swept

7 OF DEAD ARE CHILDREN

Persons Hurt Are Not Expected to Recover

DETROIT, Mich. — (By Associated Press) — Nine persons, seven of them children, are dead, and three others are seriously burned, one of them perhaps fatally, as the result of a fire early today that destroyed the farm home of Mrs. Margaret Wakeu, two miles north of the Detroit city limits.

The dead are Mrs. Wakeu's husband and her four children, Mrs. Eliza Cosnick, of Detroit, and the latter's three children, who were visiting at the Wakeu home.

Mrs. Wakeu is not expected by hospital authorities to recover.

Joseph Walswald, 34, a boarder at the home, jumped from a second story window, his clothing ablaze. His condition is serious. Another boarder escaped uninjured by jumping from the window.

The fire started by an explosion caused when Mrs. Wakeu poured kerosene into a kitchen stove to start a fire. The woman rushed out of doors, being badly burned before the fire on her clothing was extinguished. The explosion spread a quantity of burning kerosene throughout the home, which soon was blazing from top to bottom.

The Wakeu and Cosnick children were burned to death in their beds.

HERO MEDAL FOR EUGENE DOTY

Columbus Grove People Favor Application for Honor

Citizens of Columbus Grove are divided on the suggestion of application for a Carnegie hero medal for Eugene Doty, 14, son of Charles Doty, who saved his father's life when he was attacked by a bandit early Sunday morning.

Ministers of the town refused to be quoted on the proposition. They have preached repeatedly against evil influences which they declare results from visits made by young boys to pool rooms.

Few people wished to talk about making application for a medal.

John Eherman, mayor of Columbus Grove, said: "Well, I don't know about a medal. It might be all right. The boy certainly showed bravery and skill."

Grant Bogart, mayor-elect, said: "As for my part, I think he should have it. He displayed rare presence of mind and is a hero in my estimation. I would be in favor of seeing any medal come to him that could be awarded."

Hon. John Hogg, churchman and farm institute speaker: "Oh, I don't know. The boy displayed presence of mind, tho'."

Several others who were approached apparently did not feel like giving young Doty any credit for his heroic act.

U. S. WAR-BOUND BY NEW PACT

Treaty Hatched in Secret, Says Senator LaFollette

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — Declaring that the new four power Pacific treaty had "all the ingredients of the league of nations with none of the virtues claimed for that document," Senator LaFollette, Republican of Wisconsin, today announced in a formal statement that he was prepared to do "all in my power to prevent its ratification."

Mr. LaFollette declared that the document as it stands binds the United States to recognize the title of Great Britain and Japan to the vast territory in the Pacific seized by these powers under the treaty of Versailles, which territory, he added, was divided in accordance with a secret treaty negotiated between Great Britain and Japan, prior to America's entrance into the world war.

"Under the cloak of a conference made possible by a world wide sentiment for disarmament," the senator continued, "the diplomats representing reactionary sentiment in Great Britain, France, Japan and the United States, have hatched in secret a treaty alliance which morally binds this country to go to war whenever the rights of either of the high contracting parties in the Pacific are threatened."

"For the United States to enter an alliance with the only great imperialist nations which survived the war is a rash substitute for the peaceful, anti-imperialist American policy, tested by a century and a quarter and based upon friendship with all nations and entangling alliances with none."

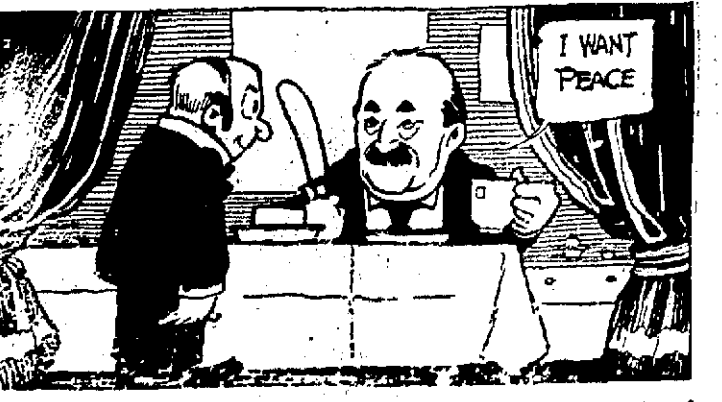

J. P. MORGAN TELLS WHAT HE WANTS

(BY RUTH ABELING)

NEW YORK — I have just discovered what J. P. Morgan wants for Christmas!

He wants — But let's not hurry.

It was about 8:30 a. m. when I ventured up the stone steps of the Morgan residence at Madison-av and 39th-st and pushed the little button beside the glass door.

The butler opened the door. "Mr. Morgan in?" I asked. "Yes, but Mr. Morgan" — the butler had a nice voice, a whole lot like the voice of any banker — "never sees anyone."

to put on and rush off to the office. The butler disappeared into the breakfast room.

And shortly: "Tell her I am very sorry, I am just at breakfast, and besides — I never am interviewed." It was Mr. Morgan's voice — a deep voice, not at all unkind.

"Then if you won't see me — what does so rich a man want for Christmas?" I ventured.

"Nothing in particular," he began, "unless that we may all live in peace."

There was just the hint of a smile in his voice. And, as he opened the door, the butler smiled, too.

WALLACE FIGHTS LIQUOR CHARGE

Await Departure of Policeman Before Raid is Staged

NO LIQUOR FOUND IN PLACE

Two Other Establishments Are Searched

Investigation of the presence of a police officer in an alleged drinking place at Wayne-st and Central-ave, raised by city and county officials late Monday afternoon, was begun Tuesday.

F. W. Wallace, 42, oil well driller, was arrested on a charge of selling liquor. He was held under $1,000 bond in criminal court Tuesday and will be given a preliminary hearing later, the court announced. Evidence against the place was obtained by Deputy Sheriff Clarence Fraumfelter and another officer. Fraumfelter said liquor was secured at the Wallace place at 50 cents a glass. Later it was arranged that they return and purchase a bottle of the stuff.

Fraumfelter said Tuesday his visit to the place was delayed by the presence of a policeman.

"We waited around 15 or 20 minutes before the policeman sauntered away," Fraumfelter said. When queried as to the name of the officer the deputy sheriff said it was "a brother of Wallace."

A raiding squad comprising Chief of Police O. J. Roush, Sheriff Charles Baxter and Roy Bowersock later went to the Wallace place with Fraumfelter.

No liquor was found, altho Fraumfelter and his companion reported they had purchased a quantity in a pop bottle a short time previously. Wallace pleaded not guilty before Judge Jackson Tuesday morning. His attorney sought to have bond reduced to less than $500. Judge Jackson refused, on the ground that if the accused was found guilty the fine would be made $1,000. Judge Jackson said he did not want to make the bond less than the prospective fine.

Two other places in the vicinity of Wayne-st and Central-ave were entered by investigators, but no evidence was secured, altho it was stated they were able to buy drinks.

McGannon, was issued today by Presiding Judge Willis Vickery of the appellate court following his dismissal of McGannon's appeal from the twenty day jail sentence and $100 fine imposed when he was found guilty of contempt of court. County Detective James Doran, armed with the capias, is searching for McGannon.

Usually, while hoping for the best in a weather way, the average person expects the worst. The forecast of cloudy and somewhat colder tonight, with probable snow in the northwest portion, is not surprising as the day's release. For Wednesday, snow or rain is the offering.

Apparently, it's going to be a good time for the average citizen to hang about his own fireside tonight.

WOMEN SEEK COMFORT, RATHER THAN STYLE. DEALERS NOW ASSERT

Women of Lima care little about increasing sizes of their waist-line or higher numbers for shoes. It used to be, sales-people were forced to tell an untruth to sell the goods, if women desired sizes of shoes two numbers above what they usually wore, or were shown a 38 corset.

But that time has passed. As a result of athletics and common sense in dress, dealers in both shoes and corsets declare women are paying no attention to sizes of shoes or corsets—they are simply being fitted comfortably.

Sales-people and physicians declare the new method is one that contributes largely to the health of the woman or girl who follows it and not fashion's extreme dictates.

ONE HITCH IN THE ARMS PARLEY

Failure to Act on Land Forces Disappoints Bryan

(BY WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN) WASHINGTON.—It is a wonderful month—epoch-making in the world's history—that the arms conference has spent in working out a solution of the peace problem. It is hard to realize that only a month ago the world was started by the proposed scrapping of half the battleship tonnage of the leading nations. It took a while for the people to grasp the situation, but in a week's time the nations settled down to the new program, and began to suspend work in the shipyards.

Then followed Briand's statement of France's position, which seemed to halt progress in the direction of land disarmament. This is the only thing that has been disappointing during the entire conference.

Those on the inside may be maturing a plan for dealing with the military establishments of the world, but the general public is in doubt.

It is even intimated that the subject will be turned over to the next conference without any action being taken. It is strange that so direct a challenge to the new German republic has not brought forth an answer.

COMMUNITIES ARE OVER-CHURCHED

Facts Laid Before County Conference Held Here

Rev. B. F. Lamb, secretary of the Ohio Federation of churches, was in charge of the meetings of Allen-co representatives in an interdenominational conference at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday. Election of officers for 1922 was scheduled for the afternoon.

In their efforts to create a system of community church centers, it was shown on behalf of the plan that large areas in Allen-co are outside the boundaries of any church, while in others the communities are "overchurched." It was pointed out there are 41 full time ministers in a non-Catholic population of 22,000 persons outside Lima and Delphos.

Among the communities designated as "overchurched" are: Lafayette, population 1,683, with 11 churches; Beaver Dam, 1,494, six churches; Harrod, 1,424, seven churches; Elida, 1,335, seven churches; West Cairo, 1,035, five churches; Gomer 1,014, four churches.

A survey of Allen-co shows there are 91 churches outside of Lima and Delphos, of which three are Roman Catholic, the 88 others being divided among 23 Protestant denominations. Six abandoned churches were reported.

The 88 Protestant churches in Allen-co are served by 556 pastors. Forty-four pastors devote their entire time to the ministry. Only four rural churches have full time resident pastors, the others serving one or more churches. Only nine of the 56 Allen-co rural ministers are receiving in excess of $1,500 a year in salary. It was stated.

The survey also shows that 39 of the churches fail to have services as often as once each week.

The plan of the community church is to create a centrally located church, so situated in rural districts that it may serve the greatest number of people and to hold services in the edifice for all denominations thus reaching the now pastorless and churchless districts and eliminating the "over-churched" situation.

ROADHOUSE BURNS

"The Cedars," Near Covington, Ky., is Destroyed by Fire

COVINGTON, Ky. — (By Associated Press) — Fire of mysterious origin destroyed "The Cedars," a well known roadhouse south of La-tonia, early today. Two colored servants narrowly escaped execution, and a bull dog which had performed in vaudeville theatres throut the country, was burned to death.

The loss exceeds $25,000. Harry (Chub) Gahan, one of the lessees, said a neighbor saw an automobile leave the place a short time before the fire was discovered.

JAPANESE PREMIER CALLS PACIFIC TREATY GREAT

TOKIO — Conclusion of the four power entente for preservation of peace in the Pacific brings to an unusual completion the aims of the conference on limitation of arms, Premier Baron Takahashi is quoted as declaring.

"The American president must be congratulated on the grandest contribution to the cause of Peace ever recorded in history," he said. "The peoples of the world are likewise to be congratulated upon the most significant assurance ever given for the promotion of their welfare."

He expressed the hope that the nations cooperating in the cause of peace eventually would realize the abolition of armaments.

WOMEN SEEK COMFORT, RATHER THAN STYLE. DEALERS NOW ASSERT

Women of Lima care little about increasing sizes of their waist-line or higher numbers for shoes. It used to be, sales-people were forced to tell an untruth to sell the goods, if women desired sizes of shoes two numbers above what they usually wore, or were shown a 38 corset.

But that time has passed. As a result of athletics and common sense in dress, dealers in both shoes and corsets declare women are paying no attention to sizes of shoes or corsets—they are simply being fitted comfortably.

Sales-people and physicians declare the new method is one that contributes largely to the health of the woman or girl who follows it and not fashion's extreme dictates.

10,000 MEN CUT FROM NAVY

NEW YORK — (By Associated Press) — Orders received today at the New York navy yard which would provide for a reduction in the enlisted personnel of the United States navy of approximately 10,000 men set forth that any enlistment might be cancelled by resignation.

The orders, according to officials at the yard, would reduce the navy to the numerical strength permitted under recent appropriations of congress. Approximately 2,000 men would be taken from the Atlantic fleet alone.

The drastic cut, it was said, probably would result in laying up of a number of vessels and a reduction in the strength of the crews of many others.

COLUMBUS GROVE BOY SHOT BY HIS BROTHER

COLUMBUS GROVE — (Special) — Harry Logan, 10, son of Joseph Logan, was shot by his older brother, Darrell, Monday, while the boys were visiting their aunt, Mrs. Hoff-ferbert, south of this place.

The two found a rifle in a shed. In their curiosity to examine it, the gun was discharged. The bullet lodged in the right shoulder of the lad. An X-ray may be necessary to locate the bullet. The boy is not in a serious condition.

VETERINARIANS ON THE DECREASE

Alarming Shortage Faces U. S., Says David L. White

ONLY 641 STUDENTS LISTED

Number of Schools Drops From 21 to 13

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press) — In the last five years, enrollment of students in veterinary college and schools in the country decreased from 3,160 to 641.

An alarming shortage of veterinarians in the United States is imminent.

These are assertions in a formal statement made here by David L. White, dean of the college of veterinary medicine at Ohio State University.

In 1916, according to Dean White, there were 21 veterinary schools in the country; today there are but 13, and of the students enrolled in them, only 163 are freshmen.

"The average time a veterinarian spends in his profession is 20 years, and to maintain only the present supply—there are about 10,000 practicing in the United States and Canada—each year 500 veterinarians should be graduated from schools of the country, the statement declared.

"The average number of veterinarians being turned out each year from colleges is about 150, or less than two-fifths required to supply the demand, which is sure to be re-established when the country again is stabilized, and the stock values and interests return to normal."

The prevalent idea that since the advent of the motor vehicle, veterinarians are not needed, is fallacious, Dean White declared.

"Admittedly, urban street transportation very largely is motorized, he continued. "However, the pinnacle of motorization seems to have been reached, as many business firms are substituting horses for motor haulage, especially for short hauls."

"Experience has shown that the number of horses displaced by tractors on farms ranges from one-fifth to one-fourth; but if we grant, for the sake of argument, that one-third of the horses on farms of more than 100 acres be displaced by tractors, one per farm, it would require 2,673,343 tractors, which averaging $1,000 each, would cost the farmers the stupendous sum of $2,673,345,000."

Seventeen potato growers in Ohio have received certificates from the state bureau of plant industry to sell certified seed next spring. These growers will have approximately 7300 bushels of seed for distribution, which will be sufficient to plant 800 acres of potatoes.

Potato seed certification in Ohio is comparatively new in Ohio. During 1920, eleven growers raised certified seed, and their total production was 3500 bushels.

More than 75 requests were made to the Ohio State Bureau of Plant Industry last June for inspections of potato fields for certified seed.

More than half were eliminated by department experts on the first inspection. The remainder were eliminated, with the exception of 17, on the second inspection trip. E. C. Cotton, chief of the bureau, attributes this high percentage of elimination to the potato leaf hopper, and to early and late blights. Certificates were issued only where fields contained vines of uniform variety, free from discuses.

The department of agricultural education at Ohio State University in cooperation with the department of agricultural engineering, is making plans for conducting about 30 tractor schools throughout the state during the coming winter.

The first school will be started soon, and will last to December 23. It will be held at Worthington, near Columbus, so that it can have the close supervision of the agricultural engineering staff at the University. It is planned to accommodate about 20 to 25 men at each of the schools, and indications are that practically all the schools will be filled.

Judging teams sent out by the Ohio State University college of agriculture this year have made the best record in the history of the school. First at the national dairy show, and the international exposition, was taken, and the second at the national swine show.

Starting the last week in December, the dairy products team won 4 out of five cups offered, including the sweepstakes. In addition to that, it placed first, second and third in the individual ratings for judging butter, milk and cheese, thereby winning 8 out of the 13 medals offered.

The next week at the national swine show at Peoria, Illinois, the team placed second, and H. W. Baumgardner was high man. At the international exposition at Chicago, Ohio's team stood first. There was only a range of 17 points between the high man and the low man on the team, which is considered remarkable.

BUSINESS SLOW BUT GROWING

No Ground, However, for Discouragement, Forbes Says

POINTS OUT BRIGHT SPOTS

Few Complaining Because of Short-Range View

(BY B. C. FORBES)
NEW YORK.—(Special.)—If business during this month of December is doing little more than marking time, it at least has its eyes front.

Those who take a short-range view complain that improvement is painfully slow. They emphasize that business lacks snap, that much effort has to be put forth to and even a moderate volume of orders and that profits are not what they were. Some dwell upon the fact that there has been actual slowing down in a few directions within the last two months. And all this is true.

This reasoning, however, reminds one of the reply given by the country dweller when asked, on his return, what he thought of the city: "I could not see the city for the houses and the people."

It also recalls the sage observation that it is not tremendously important how far you have gone, but that it is tremendously important that you should be going in the right direction.

Many recent developments have been of extraordinary importance and extraordinarily encouraging.

A tax-weary world promises to have its urchins lightened as a fruit of the momentous negotiations now under way at Washington.

The latest news from Washington also strengthens hopes that measures will be taken not merely to stay armament building, but to draw the world's strongest powers together in a way calculated to lessen the danger of war.

A sigh of relief has gone up here as well as abroad over the reaching of a harmonious agreement between Britain and Ireland—or, rather, the Irish free state.

Deep satisfaction is felt in the highest circles over the apparently authoritative intimations that plans are being formulated to modify Germany's reparation payments following the honoring of the January and February installments, thus affording Germany an opportunity to address herself in earnest to the task of making her budget balance and stopping her disastrous outpouring of paper currency by the billion every week.

The recovery in Sterling exchange to above $4.10 last week was interpreted as momentarily significant, especially as French, German and other exchanges also improved.

Bank reserves in this country reached a new maximum, a fact which justifies confidence that before very long idle funds will be pressed into service in such a way as to stimulate industrial and business enterprise, particularly on the part of powerful capitalistic interests.

Not without significance are the lowering of the income yield on the state of Pennsylvania's new bonds to four per cent, and the reducing of certain corporate obligations at lower rates than were carried by the maturing securities.

Unemployment figures likewise are much more satisfactory than any one had dared expect they would be in mid-December.

The security markets have maintained practically all of their substantial advance despite falling off in the volume of dealings in stocks. Moreover, new bond issues continue to be absorbed readily.

In analyzing conditions, the prevalence of merger reports are worth noting.

Wall-st rumor is busy forming two ambitious steel combinations, a comprehensive coal consolidation, oil mergers galore, the welding together of various important copper companies, annexations of automobile plants by powerful interests, the absorption of financial institutions by larger ones, and other assimilation of similar units by trusts or influential independents.

Then, too, imagination is being given free rein in outlining possible railway mergers on a colossal scale, now that the Transportation Act endorses the dividing of the entire country into large sections with only one consolidated railway system serving.

Of course, not all of these talked-of mergers will materialize.

Nevertheless, conditions are ripe for important developments.

There are in America rather large numbers of men who combine Napoleonic ambitions with tremendous ability. If asked, they would name as their principal obstacle exacting what John D. Rockefeller told me was his principal obstacle, namely, the procuring of enough capital to do all the business he could do. Now, such an over-abundance of idle gold and potential credit is accumulating in this country that use for it will unquestionably be found by those who are averse to retaining in unprofitable idleness resources which could be employed profitably. Thus, capital and credit for the formation of huge consolidations will be available.

Moreover, our brainiest financial and industrial giants do not confine their reckonings to the present surplus of productive capacity. They look ahead, and, looking, they foresee the time when America will require vastly greater productive capacity than now exists.

The recent eager absorption of new security issues notable presages an appetite by and by for securities less gilt-edged. The demand for the highest grades of investments invariably is followed, gradually, by an equally urgent demand for semi-speculative and then speculative securities.

When that time comes—and there is little doubt that it is coming—everything will be right for the flotation of mergers. What the economic results of such mergers, or how the latter may be viewed by the lawmakers and the courts, are phases of this subject which cannot be now discussed.

DISARMAMENT ADVOCATED BEFORE MANUFACTURERS BY PITTSBURGH SPEAKER

Holworth, economic expert of the Bank of Pittsburgh, addressed members of the Manufacturers' association and its invited guests, the charter commission members, officials of the chamber of commerce, representatives of Lima banks and prominent business men, at a 6:30 dinner at the Lima club, Monday evening. His subject was: "Economic Disarmament."

Dr. Holworth spoke at the Monday to members of the Toledo Bankers' association. He was due to return to Toledo Tuesday to address the Toledo Chamber of Commerce at a noon luncheon meeting.

GAS WAR IS ON WAY; PREPARE!

British Expert Opposes Prohibition of Poison Fumes

IS LOGICAL FOR OFFENSIVE

Germany Still Maintains Means of Making It

LONDON. (Special) — Instead of dismantling their war chemical plants, the world powers should develop to the greatest extent their ability to produce dyes and poisons. If they do not, they face extermination in the gas cloud of another great war in which poison gas will be the most important medium of offense. That is the belief of Major Victor Lefebure, expressed in a book he has just brought out. Lefebure is England's greatest authority on chemical warfare. He served with a gas unit on the British front in France. Later he was British chemical warfare liaison officer. His statement is directly opposed to the recommendation of the American advisory committee at the Washington arms conference that the manufacture of poison gas be prohibited. "National safety demands strong organic chemical industries," Lefebure says. "No convention, guarantee or disarmament safeguard will prevent an unscrupulous enemy from using poison gas. Especially if that enemy has discovered some new powerful agent or possesses a ready means of producing such chemicals at a moment's notice. Our chemical industry should be developed so that when an emergency develops we shall have the necessary facilities for supply at hand." Lefebure points to gas as the logical offensive medium of future wars. Gas almost had superseded artillery by the close of the World War, Lefebure says. In 1918 German guns were firing 50 per cent gas and 50 per cent high explosives. GERMANY DISARMING JOKE The disarmament of Germany has been a joke, the British expert declares. Germany has been deprived only of her small arms and artillery — her gas facilities remain. German gas during the World War was supplied by the Interessengemeinschaft, a vast combine of chemical factories. Since the war that combine still exists and its ability to produce gas is as great as it was in the past. The factories themselves are flourishing on peace time dye trade. Lefebure does not accuse the Interessengemeinschaft of plotting a great gas war. "But," he says, "the potential menace is there!"

CORD SOLE COMPANY IS 'DOUBLING FLOOR SPACE'

Extensive building improvements are under way at the Lima Cord Sole & Heel company plant, on N. Elizabeth-st. The present quarters, 50x100 feet, are being doubled, a recent acquisition of the company taking in the old residence property adjoining, facing West-st, which will be converted into extra factory space. The company is crowded with more orders than its present capacity can turn out for the next year. The factory is operating 24 hours a day, its present capacity being slightly less than 25,000 heels, and 2,000 cord soles, per day, Manager J. H. Grosjean said. Lima workmen only are employed.

LOVE IS MIXED IN GROCERY STAPLES

Crumrine-Keville Marriage Kept Secret a Year

Love was mixed with sugar, potatoes, beans and other grocery staples and the marriage of Mrs. Alma McBride Keville and Darrell Clemens Crumrine occurred more than a year ago, in Newport, Kentucky.

Announcement of the event was not made until Tuesday and it created a surprise among their friends in this city. The couple stole away to Newport, were quietly married and succeeded in keeping the marriage a secret until they were ready to announce it.

Some years ago Mrs. Keville conducted a grocery at 201 E. Wayne-st. Her residence was at 203 E. Wayne-st.

Crumrine was later engaged as manager. Love was mixed with the grocery business and the marriage was the result of a romance of the workaday world.

For the present they will make Lima their home. Crumrine owns a summer place in northern Michigan, where they will sojourn during the heated season next year. Later they will devote considerable time in travel.

The bride has taken an active interest in social affairs of Lima and has a wide circle of admiring friends, who will be much interested in the announcement. Mrs. Crumrine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McBride, Pandora.

Before assuming charge of the grocery, Crumrine was connected with the Cadillac Motor Car company, W. North-st. He is a world war veteran.

HORSE, HOGS BURN

Koenig Barn Destroyed—Hunter's Feet Frozen

ST. MARYS — (Special) — A horse, nine pigs, hay, corn, harness, wagons and farm implements of all kinds were destroyed by fire. The farm, tenanted by Ralph Koons, is located in the Ferguson school district, three miles northwest of this city.

Fire in the Earl Frampton residence here, twice in two years, in exactly the same spot, is noted as an unusual incident. In both instances the fire was starting in the roof by sparks from the chimney. Fire Chief Caldwell said Monday.

Marooned on an oil well derrick in the reservoir near here from Friday until Sunday morning, when he was rescued, was the experience of Lester Bowersock, 22, a resident of the Buckland district. His boat broke away from its fastening and drifted out of reach while he waited for wild duck to pass over. Bowersock swam out toward it, but feared to venture the entire distance and returned to the derrick, where he perched in the cold, with his clothing wet. Shots from his gun failed to attract attention or aid. Bowersock's feet are frozen and he may lose one of his toes.

ACT TO LEGALIZE FARMER COMBINATIONS IS SOUGHT

WASHINGTON — Legislation to legalize cooperative combinations of farmers for marketing and distribution of their products and to provide for agricultural attaches at American consulates in foreign countries, will be recommended by the joint congressional committee of agricultural inquiry, according to Chairman Anderson, who announced today that part of the commission's report would be made public before the end of the month. The report, he said, also will stress the need for more adequate wholesale terminal facilities.

Findings of the commission, according to present plans will be divided into four reports, the first to deal with the agricultural crisis and its causes, to be followed by reports relating to credit, transportation and distribution and marketing.

WORLD ECONOMIC PARLEY MAY BE HELD IN U. S.

LONDON — (By Associated Press) — Rumors of the possibility of an international economic conference in Washington which have been current here during the last few days, were the subject of comment in the London morning newspapers today. It is not assumed that such a conference has been decided upon, but the success of the armament conference has aroused hopes that the economic troubles in Europe may be settled by a similar gathering.

Connected with the rumors are more or less vague reports that Prime Minister Lloyd George and Premier Briand of France intend to go to Washington together after the French premier's visit here next week.

It is believed that the conversations between the British and French premiers will take a wider range than the single question of German reparations and this supposition is largely the basis of today's press speculation concerning a possible new conference in America.

VINCENT FLINN BURIAL TO OCCUR WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for Vincent Flinn, 48, late of 607 S. Union-st., who died Monday at City hospital will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the residence. Rev. D. N. Kelly, pastor of Grace M. E. church, will officiate. Interment will be in Wood lawn.

Death was due to appendicitis. Besides the widow, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. J. G. Rutledge, 831 St. Johns-ave; Roberta and Bernice Flinn, residing at the parental home; a sister, Mrs. Martha Morris, St. Johns; a brother, Oliver Flinn, St. Johns-ave, and two grand-children.

APPEALS COURT AFFIRMS DECISION IN DISMISSAL OF LANE AS INSTRUCTOR

Discussion of his married life and separation from his wife, with his pupils; taking a stand against the married state and informing his pupils as to the latest dance steps and ankle watches, cost W. L. Lane, 732 S. Pine-st, his job as teacher in the higher grades of the West Calro schools two years ago.

Court of appeals late Monday affirmed decision of common pleas court, which decided against Lane when he applied for more than $300 back pay, alleged to be due on his school contract.

At the time of the difficulty two years ago Judge William Klinger, sitting in common pleas court, after a hearing, granted an injunction preventing Lane from entering the school grounds or in any way interfering with conduct of schools.

THREE BIG STRIKES THREATENED

New York is Faced by Industrial Upheavals

NEW YORK — (By Associated Press) — New York's industrial horizon assumed a more pessimistic outlook today. Three great strikes that would involve more than 100,000 men in the metropolitan area appeared against a background of three important labor disputes already in progress. Rumblings of wage disputes came from three quarters—the anthracite coal miners, railroad maintenance of way and shop craftsmen and the building trades.

Of these, the threatened walkout in the building trades, which alone would affect nearly 100,000 men here, was pointed out as having serious possibilities. Drastic wage cuts, to be drafted tomorrow, will be fought to the utmost, union leaders declared.

Railroad men stated their position with regard to proposed cuts by unanimously voting to demand immediate increases of about 17 per cent.

After arguments of opposing counsel yesterday, Supreme Court Justice Wagner reserved decision on the motion to make permanent a temporary injunction against the garment manufacturers to restrain them from breaking existing contracts with the unions. The garment strike, called in protest against the institution of piece work by the operators, has been in progress several weeks.

MINERS ROUTED BY WOMEN

Kansas Coal Diggers Flee Before Amazon Army

GIRARD, Kas. — (By United Press) — An "Amazon army" throwing red pepper, bricks, stones and lumps of coal, swept thru the southern Kansas coal fields today, mobbing five mines and forcing miners to quit work. Skirts and shawls flying, the women, wives and relatives of "rump" strikers, swept down upon the mines and in many instances put working miners to flight with their fists.

Fiercely, like tigresses, the women clawed and in some instances used their teeth on miners who failed to heed their warning cries of "Get out of here—you dirty traitors."

Several miners were bruised by missiles, others were almost blinded by the shower of red-pepper.

Four Jackson-Walker mines and another near Mulberry were "cleaned out," the women, mostly foreigners, Jersey, shawled and picturesque, then turned their attention to another Mulberry mine.

"We'll run every Lewis traitor off the job in southern Kansas," their leaders shouted. Following American flags carried at their head, three divisions of the feminine militants plunged over embankments and across fields after their leaders. About 2,000 women participated in the riots.

SUGGESTION FOR KEEPING CITY WATER PURE MADE BY TUSING IN ADDRESS

Suggestions for insuring against disease in our city water system were made Tuesday by Dr. P. I. Tusing in his address before the Lima Kiwanis club. He spoke on general health conditions.

Dr. Tusing mentioned the fact that the basin from which the water is taken here is not kept free from water as is the practice in many cities. He said Lima's water is as pure as the average. Various means of keeping the body fit and free from disease were outlined by the speaker.

Two new members were elected to membership in the club, Dr. Morris Robinson and Harvey Crider.

Officers of the club announced that $100 would be given to the city's organized charities to be expended in form of supplying baskets this Christmas.

Arrangements were made by a large number of members to go to Ottawa Tuesday evening when Walter S. Jackson, lieutenant governor, will present the new Ottawa Kiwanis club with its charter.

BURIAL OF INFANT
The body of Leila Maxine Hanthorn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hanthorn, 202 E. Second-st, was buried Monday afternoon at city Chapel cemetery. Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor of the South Side Church of Christ, officiated at prayer services at the residence. The baby was an only child and was born Sunday.

UNEMPLOYMENT IS UP TO LEAGUE

WHITING Describes Organization in His Last Article

FRENCH HOPEFUL OF RESULT

Assembly Does Not Resemble American Institution

WHITING WILLIAMS' last article on his "pick and shovel" investigation of industrial conditions in Europe describes a session of the League of Nations assembly, viewed from a workman's standpoint.

HOW DO YOU break into this League of Nations office anyway?

(BY WHITING WILLIAMS)

My temperature was rising rapidly by the time I asked the question of a chauffeur in Geneva, last summer, I had tried to get into a very exclusive-looking private residence. It looked in every way except like the League of Nations office. A visitor from America would expect.

The first gate was locked. So was every other one. At each gate I grew warmer and warmer to think of the clerks and secretaries of the League of Nations had the nerve to take Saturday afternoon off two days before the opening of the league's second annual assembly!

Right over there, "m'sieur," was the chauffeur's answer with a stare of amazement at my ignorance.

EASY IF YOU KNOW

Then came the surprise of my life.

Across the street from my private residence was a great six or seven-story hotel building. Boys with brief-cases, letter-bags and telegrams were coming out and hustling away on motorcycles. Trying to make their way in were crowded groups of gray-haired messengers, stylish men, distinguished-looking gentlemen, some in silk hats from Europe or South America, others in turbans from India and still others in fezzes from Persia.

I had been looking for America's kind of a League of Nations. I had found the kind of league Europe has created.

LIBOR DOUBTFUL

"Well, m'sieur, it can do no harm and it may save shooting many shells," was the way a French law-aver sized it up. He and his fellow workers were not vigorously hopeful.

"We can work and work hard whenever we get the chance," according to a worker in a coal town. But for hoping—hoping for great things and good—for that we are too tired. We have hoped so long—and then had to fight so much!"

But worklessness of the world's workers is the result of world-wide causes. It will never be entirely remedied until it is met with world-wide, concerted remedies.

SIX AUTOS CRASH

Form One Mixup—Two Deaths At Delphos

DELPHOS — (Special) — Death came suddenly to Mrs. John Leindl, 58, at her home two miles west of this city. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Landemann and her entire life was spent in this community. Mrs. F. O. Adams of Lima, is a daughter of the deceased.

Henry Shoemaker, 20, died here at the home of his wife's father, James May, from tuberculosis. He was born and reared near Cloverdale, Putnam-co. Survived by his widow and a four months old child.

Four autos, owned by Ed. Odenweller of Ottoville, Palmer George, M. Wrede and Joe Weisberger, were damaged in a mixup in Main-st here, when the George car crashed against the Odenweller auto, throwing it forward and striking two others.

No one was injured when two Ford cars, owned by James Flanagan and William Cross, were in collision at a street intersection. The cars were badly damaged.

OHIO GRANGE IN CONVENTION

Every County Represented at Meeting in Cincinnati

NEW MASTER TO BE CHOSEN

Taber Delivers Annual Address — State News in Brief

CINCINNATI — (By Associated Press) — Delegates from every county in the state were present when the annual meeting of the Ohio State Grange opened here today. The convention will continue in session three days, during which topics of interest to farmers and others interested in the agricultural industry will be discussed.

On Thursday a successor to L. J. Taber, master of the grange, will be chosen. Taber for the last seven years has been master of the grange and for 15 years has been an officer. He is now director of agriculture of Ohio and has announced that he intends to take a greater part in politics.

Among the names mentioned to succeed Taber are Harry Caton, of Fresno state lecturer of the grange; C. A. Dyer, of Coalition, grange overseer, and G. A. Lewis, of Findlay. Toledo and Columbus were prominently mentioned as being in the race for the next convention city.

Master of the Grange Taber will deliver his annual address at the afternoon session today.

BUTLER APPOINTED COLUMBUS — Governor Davis appointed Max Butler of Mahoning-co, secretary of the state tax commission, to succeed Robert T. Harris, who became the governor's secretary. He also named Joseph R. McKnight as judge of the Huron county common pleas court to succeed the late Stephen M. Young.

LAWYER FOUND DEAD YOUNGSTOWN — Darwin J. Hartwell, 67, attorney, was found dead in his office. He is thought to have died of apoplexy.

BENIGNO CASE TO JURY CLEVELAND — The fate of Dominic Benigno was expected to be in the hands of a jury for the third time late today. Benigno, who is on trial for the murder of W. C. Sly during a payroll robbery saw the first jury to try him discharged because of the illness of a juror and the second because of a disagreement.

FATALLY INJURED COLUMBUS — Charles D. Baker, 46, insurance collector, was fatally injured by John Vaiden, 26, negro, when the former attempted to collect money due on an insurance policy.

GIRL, TWO YEARS OLD, IS SHOT BY HER SISTER, 7

NEW YORK — Annette Albertino, two years old, was shot and probably fatally wounded last night by her sister Marie, aged seven. Suspicion fell on the older child when her mother came into the house and discovered Annette lying unconscious on the kitchen floor.

For several hours Marie denied knowledge of how her sister was hurt. But after detectives treated her to a feast of milk and cake and promised she would not be punished, she confessed that she found a pistol in a cupboard, pointed it at her playmate and shouted "boo-hoo." There was a loud noise, she said, and Annette fell. A bullet had pierced her eye.

BOBBED HAIR DEVOTEES EXPRESS HOPE 'TWILL NEVER BECOME PASSE

Lima's bobbed hair maidens did not take time by the forelock and save their tresses for the day when bobbed hair would be passe.

Query made among those of the bobbed-hair class reveals that none of them saved their tresses. "We go to the barber once in every two weeks to keep our hair in good condition. The cuttings are short. We don't want the stuff around," one golden-tressed maiden said. "No, I didn't save my hair when it was cut—I hope the bobbed fashion continues."

Another declared if bobbed hair goes out of style, the hair-dressers will suggest some other way and it won't be necessary to have the locks, anyway. "And it's so comfortable the bobbed way," she said. "I just run my fingers thru my hair, shake my head with a little wag and my hair is combed."

"Who can beat it?" she ejaculated, as she stalked off in her usual gay way to show off the pretty hair which hung about her ears and formed a gilded frame for her lovely features.

OHIO YOUTH IS KILLED WHILE HUNTING RABBITS

CINCINNATI — Jesse Raymond Frank, 7 years old, who lived on a farm near Cleves, Ohio, died at a hospital here last night from the effects of a gunshot wound received while he was hunting rabbits last Friday.

A shotgun the boy was carrying exploded accidentally when he was crawling thru a barbed wire fence.

INLAND U. S. BLIND TO INTERESTS

People Warned of Blocking Way for Merchant Marine

DEPENDENT ON SEA OUTLET

Chairman of Shipping Board Explains Situation

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — (By Associated Press) — In the prairie towns, cities, villages and farms of our inland states the future of America on the seas will be decided, Albert D. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board told the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce here today. The points farthest from the ocean will decide the fate of American shipping on salt water, he said.

"The dwellers of our coastal cities are naturally for a permanently established American merchant marine," continued Mr. Lasker.

"It is the inland dweller, removed from direct contact with ships, who has felt a disinterestedness in American shipping that has almost amounted to an adverse prejudice if American shipping required national aid to insure its life.

INLAND SENTIMENT — "The inland dweller has felt that the profits of shipping inured entirely to the wealthy coast cities; that it was a local issue for local profit, and one that should be supported locally.

"Granting that the 5-5-3 naval program or some equivalent, be adopted and that we have a naval holiday for a term of years, the question of naval equality is not solved; because, if in addition to the equalized navies, and one nation possesses a merchant marine of considerable strength, the nation possessing that added convertible merchant tonnage has the preponderance of naval power.

"We should remember that if we enter a 10-year naval holiday, and if we fail to establish a merchant marine, American shipyards will be largely closed and the art of shipbuilding will practically be lost to us. Should again the day come when in the national defense, we must make use of our navy, we would be lacking the yards and the trained workers to renew its strength; and the nations which during the holiday period had kept their yards alive with merchant-marine work would have an unmatched advantage over us.

ECONOMIC NECESSITY — "But the proponents of an American merchant marine must rest their case far beyond the grounds of national defense. The claims for an American merchant marine must rest on its economic necessity to the American people as a whole.

"The farmer's direct and overwhelming interest in the overseas trade was proved not a great while ago in his pressure on Congress which resulted in the passage of a bill over President Wilson's veto directing the resumption of the War Finance Corporation with authority to issue a billion dollars, in credit for the purpose of aiding him in exporting agricultural and other products.

"Beyond all this, our greatest present customers owe us vast sums of money, which they can only pay if we take merchandise from them; and if we permit them to sell us merchandise we in turn must find new world markets for the surplus products which we shall thus have."

FOUR SUSPECTS HELD IN NEW YORK MURDER

NEW YORK — A man believed to be Garry Barry, address unknown, was killed by a "Jack the Slasher" on a downtown corner in Brooklyn early today.

The neighborhood in the shopping district was almost deserted before dawn, when a policeman heard a wild scream. Running to the spot, he found Barry lying in a pool of blood, his head almost severed by deep cuts inflicted from the back by an assailant who evidently had tipped up behind him.

Police followed a trail of blood to a nearby doorway, where they entered and arrested two men and two women on suspicion. One of the women had blood on her hands, police said.

LIMA BUSINESS COLLEGE

C. J. Gruenbaum, Pres. College Bldg. Lima, Ohio

BLIONIANS AND HUSBANDS ARE ENTERTAINED

A VERY enjoyable social gathering of Monday evening was that given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Morgan, of Kentworth-av, when the members of the Blionian club and their husbands were entertained. Assisting the hostess in dispensing hospitality throughout the evening were Mrs. Fred Bizantz, Mrs. C. P. Oliver, Mrs. T. G. Harroff, Mrs. Charles E. Kraft and Mrs. William R. Roberts.

Rev. Walter D. Cole gave an interesting resume of his travels in Algeria. Mrs. Charles Kraft delighted with a whistling solo. Following the program a social hour was enjoyed and a dainty repast was served by the hostesses for the evening.

Those enjoying the affair included Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Harroff, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Hiner, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Crider, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dexter, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Gramm, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Herrett, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bizantz, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Motter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kraft, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Tolby, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Gilles, Mrs. R. D. Hubbard, Mrs. E. A. Yocum, the Rev. Walter D. Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan.

Next regular meeting of the club will be held January 8th with Mrs. L. P. Tolby, of W. High-st.

Monday afternoon the beautiful home of Mrs. Frank L. Maire, of W. Market-st, was opened for a party given by the Arbutus club to the three clubs that are affiliated with them in a lecture course, namely, the Lotus, Woman's and Delphin.

Mrs. J. E. Grosjean, president of the Arbutus club, and her officers, Mrs. Phil Crow, vice-president, Mrs. F. L. Maire, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. H. S. Moulton, assistant secretary and treasurer, received the guests.

The rooms were adorned with small Christmas trees and red carnations in keeping with the Yuletide program, which opened with a contralto solo, Dudley Buck's "Virgin Lullaby," by Mrs. R. O. Woods. A duet, "Lovely Night," from "Fables of Hoffman," by Jacques Offenbach, was given in a pleasing manner by Mrs. Woods and Mrs. C. S. Baxter. Miss Nellie Kriete was accompanist for both numbers.

Little Miss Nellie Pursell gave a group of piano numbers to the delight of the audience, playing MacDowell's "A Scotch Fennel," Greig's "Norwegian Bridal Procession," Seelink's "The Lullaby," concluding with a Chopin Prelude in response to repeated requests.

Miss Helen Basinger received a warm welcome when she announced her contribution to the program, a Christmas play, "Dust of the Road," by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman. Miss Basinger is one of Lima's most talented readers. She but recently returned from a tour with the Marionette Players, and will remain with her mother, Mrs. M. U. Basinger until after the holidays.

Delicious refreshments were served in the dining room and an parlour, where Christmas wreaths and greenery were extensively used.

Monday evening the Crystal Room at the Hotel Argonne was filled with an appreciative group of friends of Mrs. Irene Harroff Klingler and Miss Mary K. Roby, who gave a recital under the auspices of the College Woman's club for the benefit of the Local Scholarship fund. The entire proceeds being used to assist worthy Lima girls, who desire an education.

Southern smilax with its shining green berries was festooned around the mirror while Christmas wreaths of red were prettily arranged throughout the room forming a lovely background. Few artists who have appeared before Lima audiences have presented a program more acceptable and delightful than that of Monday evening. It was complete in every detail as well as varied, showing the splendid talent of these two young women. Miss Roby as accompanist was most successful and sympathetic. Her repeated recalls she gave a favorite of today, "Lento" by Cecil Scott, following a group of five most enjoyable piano numbers.

In spite of the many difficult numbers given Mrs. Klingler sang, "O more beautiful number, 'Pale Moon'" by Cavanaugh, giving it in excellent voice with every note filled with the beauty and pathos of the Indian song.

In celebration of the first birthday anniversary of her mother, Mrs. F. L. Long, of Delphos, Mrs. A. Ashbaugh of Elmwood-pl, welcomed a small group of relatives and friends at dinner at her home Sunday. Assisting the hostess was her sister, Mrs. Edna Davis.

NEW YORK—Coat-trouser-cape—that's the very latest thing in the three-piece suit. And the best part of this new combination for the up-to-date woman is that she can convert the cape into a skirt, or the skirt into a cape, at a minute's notice. The great demand for trousered costumes for the sports girl has brought such comfort to the active woman that now she is insisting on knickerbockers not only for golf and climbing, but for motoring and town tramps. The material used in these trouser-coat-cape suits is Goldex imported tweed. The skirt is so cut that when it is desired to take it off for climbing it may be brought over the shoulder and around the waist very much like a military cape. Clasp on the hip and shoulder and a silver girdle add the chic touch to this newest of costumes.

LETTERS TO LOVERS

By WINONA WILCOX

An illuminating statement of how a married man proceeds when he amuses himself by playing upon the emotions of a girl is detailed below—of course by the girl:

"The married man who employs me has been very kind to me. Soon after going to work for him, I found that when closing time came, I simply had to leave the office."

"As we lived near each other, my employer always took me home in his car. We became great friends. He told me all about himself. I confided my troubles to him. I am 17 years old."

"It happened that his wife and children were away from home for weeks. One night he met me down town. He said he was lonesome and asked me to take pity on him."

"I have no company like other girls. Really, I have nothing. And so I employed spending the evening with him and I must say he was a perfect gentleman."

"Later I met him many times and he told me how he loved his family and how lonesome he was and how fortunate he was in having me to comfort and advise him."

"Soon I discovered that he is much more to me than a friend. In fact, I am madly in love with him."

"But I do not see how he can care for me except as a pal when his wife is not around. I want to make it clear that he never proposed anything to which a lady could object but naturally our conversation was always pretty personal. He certainly knows how to put a good deal of charm into his friendship."

"His wife has come home. Now is it wrong for me to continue to go with him evenings as I have been doing?"

IS IT WRONG? Is it wrong for a girl to take the time a man should give to his wife? Is it wrong for a girl to receive the confidences which a man should make to his wife? Is stealing wrong?

One wonders what has become of the old-fashioned moral teaching which formerly was part of a girl's home education. One wonders how some girls manage to grow up escaping the home grown variety of ethics.

This girl excuses to herself the desire to meet the man down town on the ground that she "has no company like other girls." But when did the loneliness of an unattached female become a sane excuse for switching a husband from his wife and a father from his children? Perhaps if this girl would read her own letter as if it had been written by another, she would not continue to be in doubt as to her future conduct.

She will have to help herself. No body can save her from herself. Her cure depends upon her courage to face the fact that the man in the case is an egotist who flatters himself that he requires more than one woman to fill the vacuum he calls his heart.

"The ego urge constitutes the difference between man and the animals," says one authority. It is, unhappily, an insatiable urge in some individuals.

Criminals are not the only persons possessing an exalted ego. For example, more than one quite fascinating married man is so selfish that he never perceives what a crime he commits when he flatters a young girl into a love affair which is for her own loss.

SUSIE SMART SAYS

I AM a young man and am deeply in love with an attractive and sweet young girl about my own age. I think she cares for me, but she neglects me and is very indifferent at times. Whenever I go to see her, she treats me fine until some other young fellows come in and then she devotes all her time to them, totally ignoring me. This hurts me, but I don't seem to be able to make her realize it. We are young and I can't ask her to marry me, as I could not afford to keep a wife. This is nearly killing me. Can't you give me some advice, please Miss Smart, and tell me what I can do to make her pay more attention to me? "Jimmie"

POOR, neglected "Jimmie!" Dreadful catastrophes are putting in their appearance early in your life! I really am unable to tell you how you can force the young girl's attention. Certainly you wouldn't be satisfied and happy with forced attentions. If the girl, whom you admire, actually neglects you for others when you have asked and received permission to call, she is much at fault and apparently is not well informed on proper etiquette. If, however, you are merely a casual caller, as the other young men are, there is no reason why you should expect her to devote her entire time to you.

I am afraid, "Jimmie," until you are ready to ask the young girl to marry you, you will have to be content with as much (or as little) time as she is disposed to give you.

Dear Miss Smart:

We are two girls of 13 and 15. (1) Are we too young to go with boys? (2) I am five feet six inches tall. How much should I weigh? (3) My chest is five feet eight inches tall. How much should she weigh? (4) How late should we stay out? (5) Are we too young to go to dances? (6) How old must a girl be to be married in Monroe, Mich? (7) Should we go with one boy steady or should we go with several? (8) I go with a nice young man and like him very much. How can I tell if he likes me? (9) Should a girl be kept from church and places of amusement? My chum's mother is willing for her to go, but her father won't permit it. Do you see any harm in it? (10) How is my writing?

H. and D. of K.
(1) Yes. (2) Are you certain you measured yourself correctly? Five feet six inches is rather tall for a girl of 13. The average height of a girl your age is about four feet eight inches, while the average weight is about 90 pounds. (3) I cannot say that I can see any harm in the girl going to church. (9) Very good.

Mrs. L. C. Christie

WASHINGTON—Mrs. L. C. Christie was married in 1915.

"This is my first official trip," Mrs. Christie said, "and such a wonderful one. The only fly in the ointment is that I had to leave my baby at home—he's two—not old enough for hotel life."

THE WAX CYLINDER

BY DAVID GRAY

PATTERN FOR TODAY

THE STORY TRUE FAR
With his friends, Tinkham and Major Rivers, Colonel Pike went to a source in London. The medium communicated a message from William Lassiter to his son John concerning a gold mine that had been purchased and in which Lassiter had a half interest. Afterward, he explained to Rivers that he was Pike Lassiter and had taken the name of Pike in order to enlist in the Canadian army. He had been awaiting his father in London just before the war broke out, when he received news that his father had fallen from a window in his factory and been instantly killed.

"Did you go back to New York?" asked Rivers.
"No," said Pike. "Father was dead and buried. Then the war broke out and I went to the front. The fourth of August I got a letter from my father written from New York the day before he died. It said that he had bought an abandoned mine for a few hundred dollars and had uncovered a bonanza vein. He was going to sell a half interest to New York parties for a million and then join me in London. I figured this way. If the money was there, our father would come after it. If the old boy had been having one of his dreams, there was nothing to be done."

"The lawyer find anything?"
"Nothing. He had not known my father was in New York till he learned of his death."
"Finally Rivers said: 'Suppose your father did find a big mine, is there any way of tracing the property?'"
"If he bought an abandoned mine," Pike explained, "he must have got a deed, but there's no knowing whether he would have it recorded before he made the sale. I don't even know what state it was in. If he was robbed, they've had four years to cover up their tracks. Are you willing with me on the Spartie?" he asked abruptly.
Rivers regarded him quizzically. "Do you think two lunatics would be better than one?"
"It's your chance to make your million dollars," Pike went on. "It's a hunch."
"My son," said Rivers, "I shall request Roberts to engage in messages on the Spartie. By Jove! This son of mine, will it?—You're not J. B. Pike at all."

"We'd better keep J. B. going till the end of the chapter," said Pike. "All my papers are in his name and my passport will have to be issued to him."

Late in the afternoon of the twenty-seventh, the Spartie worked out of the Mersey in the teeth of a west-erly gale. About six, Rivers came down to the stateroom where Pike was unpacking.
"I've been doing a bit of a scout," he observed. "Found out where we're going to sit. Table seventeen for four. You and I, a chap named Lloyd and a female. The ship's pretty full. We're lucky not to be sandwiched in with a mob."
As they approached table seventeen, a man was already seated. He looked up and nodded.
"I suppose one of you gentlemen is Colonel Pike," he said, "and the other is Major Rivers. My name is Boyd. I'm from New York."

They explained themselves and sat down.
"I had some champagne sent me just before I sailed," said Boyd. "It's got to be drunk because it can't be taken ashore. I trust you'll do me the honor to help me?"
"If you put it that way, as a matter of philanthropy," said Rivers.
"Not a bad fellow that Boyd," observed Rivers as they went on deck. "I suppose he's Jewish, hard to find these days. He tells a good story, too. Business fellow—what?"
They drifted off to the smoking room and a moment later Boyd came in. "Are you gentlemen bridge-players?" he asked.
"I play a bit," Rivers answered, "but don't ask Pike. Chess is his game. He's a marvel, plays three games blind-folded."

"Chess is supposed to be my accomplishment," Boyd said, "but I can't do anything like that. Still, if you'd like to play?"
"I'd be glad to play," Pike answered, "but you mustn't believe Rivers."

Boyd ordered chessmen and took a table in the corner. Rivers cut into a four at bridge. It was after midnight when he went out on deck to fill his lungs with air and found Pike leaning against the rail.
"Well," he said, "Still think he's a crook?"
"A chicken is made up of light meat, dark meat and feathers," Pike answered enigmatically. "Boyd's got his share of dark. I like him though. He can play chess with me all the way to New York if he wants to."

"They were talking about Boyd at my card table," Rivers said. "He's a member of a reputable firm of stock-brokers, belongs to good clubs and is accounted a thoroughly good sort."
"I'm sure I'm glad to hear it," Pike answered.
The sixth day out the weather came off fair and calm. Pike put in the evening with Boyd at the chess-board and a little before midnight went to his cabin. He was in bed when Rivers came in.
"You asleep?" began Rivers.
"No," was the answer.
"I meant to tell you something this afternoon, but I forgot."

"You remember that girl I pointed out to you in the motor-car in front of the Ritz?"
"You mean the nurse?"
"Yes. She's on board. She was sitting in the sun in a steamer-chair. Who do you suppose I saw come up to her and give her a book?"
"I can't guess."

ed out to you in the motor-car in front of the Ritz?"
"You mean the nurse?"
"Yes. She's on board. She was sitting in the sun in a steamer-chair. Who do you suppose I saw come up to her and give her a book?"
"I can't guess."

"Boyd. I nodded to him and was properly presented."
Pike sat crosswise in the upper berth. "Why have you buttoned this up all day?" he demanded.
"Rivers' eyes met those of his friend. 'To tell the truth,' he said 'I wanted time to think. Then this evening, as we came out from dinner I tipped the second steward. I said, 'Steward, you've made us very comfortable; glad you put us at the same table with Mr. Boyd.' 'I can't claim credit for that,' said he, 'Mr. Boyd came aboard the morning we sailed and gave particular directions that you and Colonel Pike were to be seated with him.' 'What do you think of that?'"

"I'll tell you tomorrow," Pike answered.
At nine the next morning Pike was on deck. He stationed himself on the star-board side, under cover of a ventilator, and watched the companionway. A little before ten he saw Boyd come out and glance about, then go aft along the port side to the smoking-room.
A quarter of an hour later a woman emerged from the companion-way with a rug over her arm. It was the woman who had nursed him at Boulogne; the woman he had seen enter the limousine at the Ritz. Turning to the port deck she disappeared from view. Pike gave her three minutes to get settled in her chair, then followed. Her gaze apparently was fixed on the sea. He raised his hat and said, "Good morning!"

A pair of grey eyes met his steadily, without recognition. "Good morning!" she answered. "Boyd's 'I beg your pardon,' he said, 'I took you for a nurse who was at the hospital at Boulogne just before the armistice.'"
"I was there as a nurse at that time."

"I was a patient in your ward, Lieutenant-colonel Pike."

"I'm sorry," she said. "You see there were so many."
"I wonder if I could recall myself," Pike suggested. "Head in bandages, couldn't hear, couldn't talk. I came in the tenth. For nearly three weeks you fed me with a tube."
"I begin to remember now," she said, but without conviction.
The next moment he felt a touch on his arm.
"I've been searching the ship for you," said Boyd. "So you've deserted me for my niece?" Can't say I blame you."

"He says he was one of my patients at Boulogne," said the girl, "and I can't remember him."
Boyd stood smiling. "Well," he said, "are you going to play chess or continue as an exhibit for identification?"
"I think my best chance is chess," Pike laughed. "We can go on with the identification later." He lifted his cap and bowed.
A plan of action began to shape itself as he played. He was roused from his meditations by Boyd's quick and triumphant move of his queen across the board. Pike smiled. "That's mate," all right," he said, "Time for another?"
"I doubt it," Boyd answered.
"I've got rather a curious problem ahead of me," Pike said abruptly. "I'd like your advice."

Boyd was putting the chessmen back in the box. "All right," he said, "you shall have it."
"Just before the war broke out," Pike began, "my father wrote me that he had struck a rich vein in an abandoned mine that he had bought. He sold a half interest for a million dollars. He died immediately afterward, suddenly, and when his estate was settled there was no trace of the million, no trace of the half that he retained neither the original deed nor anything to certify ownership of it."

"But the people he sold to ought to know about the original deed," said Boyd.
"But I don't know who they are," said Pike.
"That of course complicates matters," Boyd said thoughtfully. "Still the lawyer who settled the estate might have made away with it, or your father might have sold the remaining half as well, and never have written you about it."

"But in that case," Pike said, "ought not the money for it to have been in his estate?"

"I should think so." A startled look had come into Boyd's eyes. "Do you mean it wasn't in his estate?"
"Not a dollar of it. The million dollar he got for the half that I know he sold vanished like the mine."

Boyd sat staring at Pike. The man had heard something that he frightened him.
"I have absolute confidence in the lawyer," Pike was saying. "Besides conceding that he might have forged a transfer of the deed, how could he have got away with the check? If my father sold a half interest for a million dollars, he must have received one or more checks for the amount."

"Suppose he had been paid in securities," said Boyd, "government bonds?"
Pike shot him a quick look and Boyd's eyes shifted.
"My father had a safe-deposit box. He never would have taken a million dollars' worth of negotiable bonds to a hotel with him. That box was opened in the presence of officials from the surrogate's office, and there were no bonds there."

Boyd's brows knit in perplexity. "I judge from what you say that your father died in his room at his hotel?" he said.
"He died in the street," said Pike shortly. "He fell from the window."

"Heart failure, I suppose. One of my best friends went that way. Such things are very shocking."
"Well," said Pike after a silence, "what would you do?"
"It's the most extraordinary story I ever heard," Boyd answered. "I want to think about it before I volunteer advice. By the way," he added, "if you knew all this in 1914 why did you never do anything about it before?"

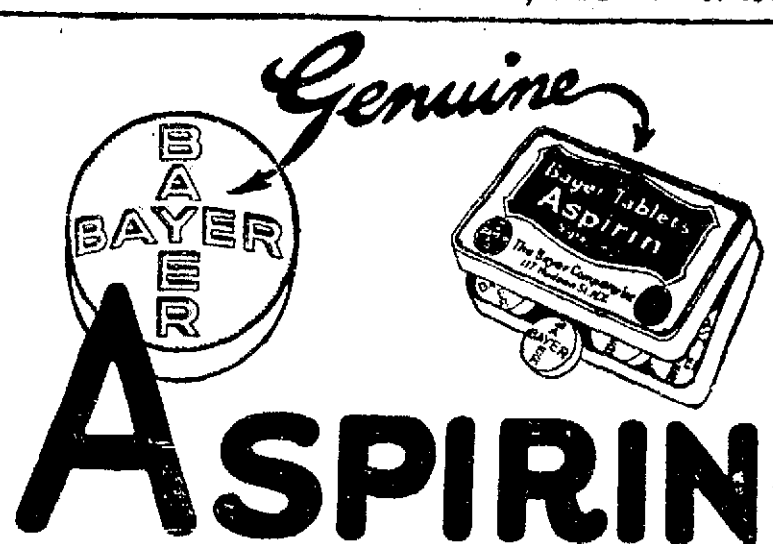

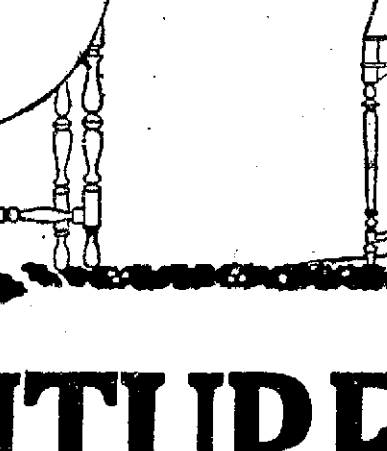

"The war began about that time," Pike answered. "Besides," he added confidently, "there's a good deal that I have done. There's a friend of mine in the West, who, I believe, knows the mine that my father bought."

Boyd rang the bell. "I'm going to have a drink," he announced. "What will you have, Pike?"
"Nothing, thank you. I think I'll get a breath of air."

"Wait a minute," said Boyd insistently, "and I'll go along with you." He rose. "Let's have a look at the market." "The wire- less ought to be up," Boyd led the way into the companionway where the ships' notices were posted. "Steel up two and a half points," he observed. "Market's strong." He reached the news items. Suddenly he swung around, his hand clutching for the rail.
"Andrews was my partner," he said thickly. "It's a bad shock. I'll be all right presently." He made his way uncertainly down the stairs and disappeared.

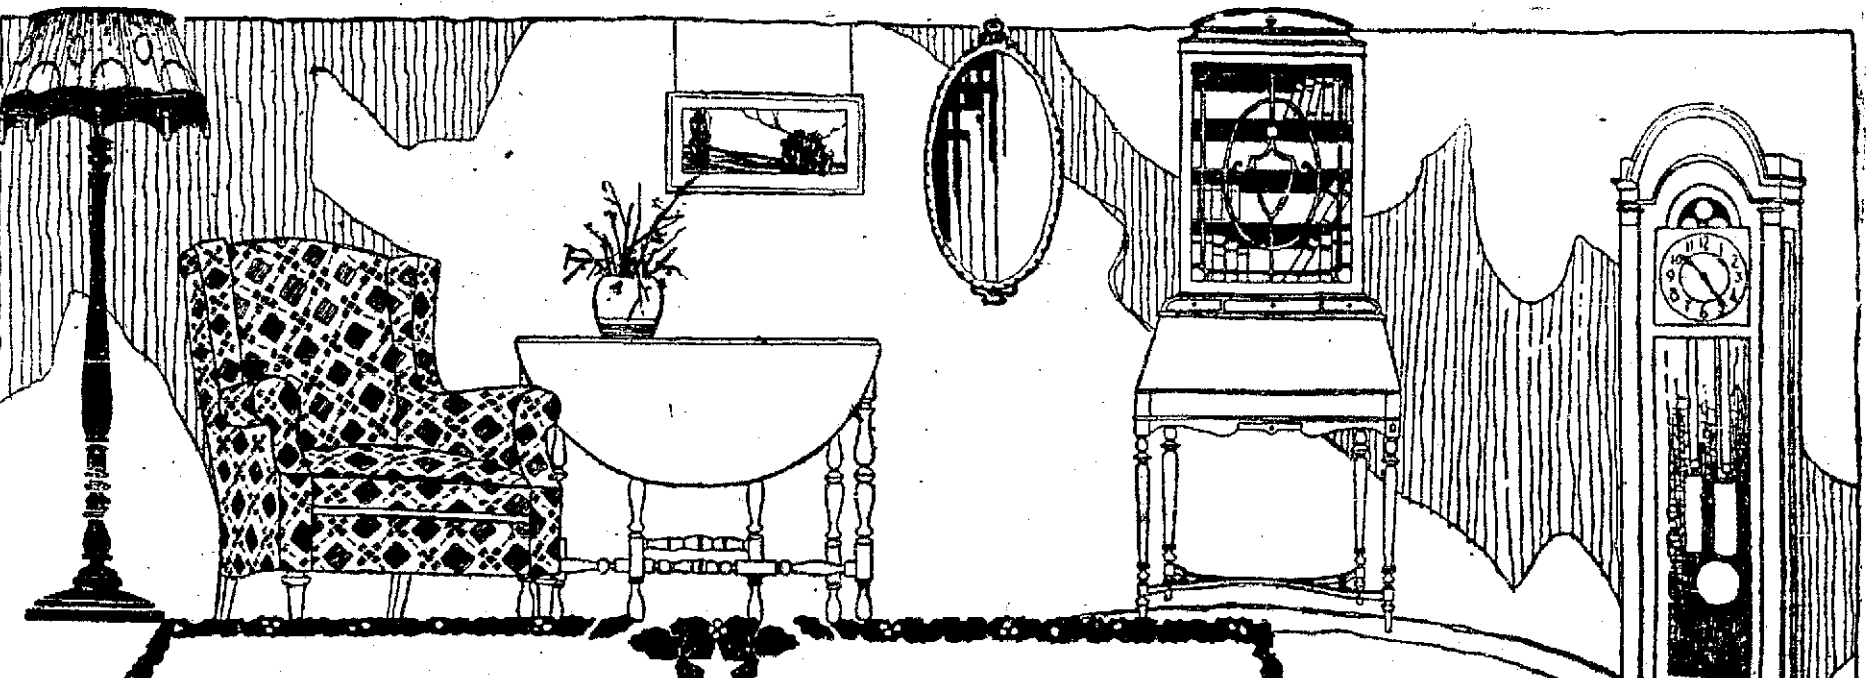

Pike turned to the bulletin and read:
"Silas W. Andrews of Andrews, Boyd & Hopkins, bankers and brokers, was instantly killed yesterday as the result of a fall from the window of his apartment on the fourteenth floor of the Medora. In September, 1914, T. F. Hopkins, the junior partner, was killed as the result of a similar accident."

SHAKE-UP OF BASEBALL RULES CONTEMPLATED

BIG TRADES BEING TALKED AT MEET

NEW YORK—Revision of the rules governing the great outdoor sport of Americans, and a general overhauling of the game were contemplated when officials of the National League of Baseball Clubs met in annual convention here today.

There were no rooting crowds nor did the swat of the ball on glove or bat resound on the battlefield, but there seemed to be promise of fireworks before the meeting was adjourned.

The owners and managers professed fatigue over the annual hold-out epidemic and efforts were expected to so arrange things that when a star player goes off in a corner and pouts for more pennies it will be possible to give him a spanking and make him go to bat.

There was under consideration a new contract under which players would be signed for twelve months instead of the playing season.

WANTS PRICE LIMIT

John Heydler, the National League president, said he would propose the fixing of a limit on the price to be paid minor league clubs for players sold to majors. Other officials of the senior circuit said they favored such a proposal because they were of the opinion that the high prices demanded by the minors were causing dissatisfaction and were a menace to the continuance of the drafting rule.

Some of the owners declared they would propose elimination of the rule preventing world series players from barnstorming, the clause that canceled Babe Ruth, Robert Meusel and William Perry to be deprived of their world's series money and to be suspended for about six weeks of the 1922 playing season. Other officials asserted their desire for a rule that would curb the use of pinch hitters.

WANTS LISTS INCREASED

The present arrangement regarding players on the reserve list and players out on optional agreement, also was slated for argument. The major leagues are at present permitted to carry forty men on the reserve list and eight on optional agreements. They want the limit raised, respectively to 50 and 12.

There will be some talk, it was said, about reduction of admission prices, but some of the wisecracks declared that the owners knew that the fans would pay what they asked and that they didn't expect any reduction, except perhaps for world's series games.

HUGGINS TO STICK

Miller Huggins announced today that he expected to manage the Yankees again next season and said that he would talk with Colonels Houston and Ruppert some time during the day.

Huggins denied any knowledge of the reported deal with Detroit involving Veach and Blumke of Detroit, and Johnny Mitchell, the Yankee infielder. Other folks said, however, that the deal actually was in the making and that there would be a confab about it soon. Huggins said he had no intention of trading Roger Peckinpaugh for Rice or Judge of Washington.

TALK TRADES AND CASH

Brooklyn's bosses were reported to be talking trades and cash with Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. The Pirates were said to be willing to part with Whitted and Schmidt in exchange for Wheat and Myers. Schmidt, one of the league's best backstops, has asked to be traded and the Superbas are known to be in the market for a catcher, but they may consider Wheat too valuable.

Centre Refuses To Play N.D. On Coast Dec. 26th

DANVILLE, Ky. — Declaring that the contract calls for an east versus west game, Centre College athletic officials today are awaiting a reply from the San Diego Chamber of Commerce to a telegram sent by Centre last night in which it declined to meet Notre Dame in San Diego on December 26.

The faculty athletic committee, in announcing its decision, said that Centre was in no way prejudiced against Notre Dame but took the view that nothing was to be gained in an east versus east game.

GOING RIGHT AHEAD

Meantime Coach Moran is going ahead with preparations for the game. He is working the team out daily and "Red" Roberts, recently elected captain for next year, is being plenty of leeway at left end.

Covington is alternating at quarterback with McMillin, whose shoes he will attempt to fill next season, this being the last game for McMillin in a Centre uniform.

The Colonels are scheduled to leave for the west Friday morning.

Wisconsin Ball Team To Invade Southern Camps

MADISON, Wis. — The University of Wisconsin baseball team will enter the south this year for the first spring training trip ever taken by the Badger varsity nine. The trip will be taken during the vacation period of April.

While no definite arrangements have been completed, the Wisconsin coach hopes to have the Badgers meet Alabama university, Mississippi University, and the Mississippi Agricultural College in two contests apiece. If unable to schedule with these schools he plans to arrange to play the University of Tennessee.

Six games will be played on the trip LOSSES SIX MEN

The squad loses six regular men from the last year team, but the strong material is available to fill in the holes. The graduation of Williams, star pitcher, who won every one of his games last season, is the hardest blow, while some difficulty will be had in locating a catcher to step into Davey's shoes.

Training will commence in the cage shortly after Christmas, when a call will be sent for the players. The spring trip is expected to be a special inducement for material, and a large squad is expected to turn out.

Three Money Winners on English Turf

SOL JOEL, LORD ASTOR, (BELOW) JOCKEY DONOGHUE

LONDON — Men of non-British blood swept the platter clean in turf honors in England in the season just closed, America being well to the foreground.

The heaviest stake winner for the year was the South African diamond magnate, Sol Joel, who won purses totaling $135,000.

Second came Lord Astor, whose father was a New Yorker. He became a naturalized Briton and was then made a peer. Astor won $100,000.

Another heavy winner was young Marshall Field of Chicago. It was his first season on the English turf. He trailed.

Joe, in addition to winning the greatest amount of money in stakes, also won the greatest number of races, and bred the most winners, 36.

Steve Donoghue, an American jockey, topped all the other jockeys in the number of winners he rode. This is the eighth successive year that he has done this. Brownie Carslake, and F. Bullock, who ranked next to Donoghue, came from Australia.

PERRY THREATENS LEGAL ACTION

Walt Perry has again forged himself into the limelight the Perry-Baxter-Schlatter mixup, by recently declaring Charley Maxwell, fight promoter for the Lima Gym club, that would start proceedings for a court injunction to restrain Baxter, Lima bantamweight, from appearing on any card as he is under the wing of Ed Schlatter.

This is a renewal of the action which started when Baxter claimed he was thru with Perry's manager and that Ed Schlatter would look after his affairs.

PERRY HAS CONTRACT

Perry had a contract with the Lima pug major, but the Lima pug major's manager negated his in and that he was at liberty to the contract. So, as the story he went to Schlatter and the manager agreed to take him and pilot his fight against Perry. Since that time Schlatter fought Baxter against 1 O'Dowd at Anderson, Ind. Perry failed to interfere as fans had expected.

O'Dowd, former middleweight champion, declared he will carry the fight to Gibbons in every round, employing the same ring tactics that won him the decision of a majority of critics in his first bout with the "Phantom" here two years ago.

While Gibbons is silent regarding his plans, his followers predict he will stage another toe to toe battle.

ST. PAUL, Minn. — St. Paul's two famous "Mikes" — Gibbons and O'Dowd — middleweight boxers, today will start tapering off in their heavy training for their ten round no-decision bout here on Friday night.

MAXWELL IS WARNED

Maxwell says that Perry's into his place of business. Mainst near the Erie depot warned him not to put Baxter on the card to be staged at morial Hall the night of 1 ber 30. "If you do I will start proceedings immediately to end in Baxter forever being eliminated from future ring activity," Maxwell says Perry told him.

"Let him go to it," Schlatter when advised of Perry's recent action. "I am prepared to fight to the last ditch for Baxter."

AN INTERVIEW WITH DEMILLE ON MAKING STARS

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)
CECIL DeMILLE was hurrying to catch the boat that was to take him to Europe for a two-months vacation. There was just two minutes to interview him.

Here's the interview, grabbed on the run, as it were:

"What's the prime requisite of a movie star?" (DeMille has placed more stars in the film armament than any other person.)

"Ability to act and personality."

"What is the more important?"

"Personality. If one has that he can be taught to act. On the other hand, one may know how to act but have no personality."

"What is personality?"

"That which makes you look at a person the second time."

"What screen players of note started their careers under your guidance?"

"Hayakawa, Mae Murray, Wallace Reid, Gertrude Farrar, Jack Holt, Gloria Swanson, Wanda Hawley, Bebe Daniels, Agnes Ayres, Elliott Dexter, Tom Meighan, Monte Blue—and oh, yes, Theodore Roberts. No player except Mary Pickford has done as much to advance the technique of screen acting as Theodore Roberts. Sorry, I've got to hurry or I'll miss the boat. I'll see you when I return from the other side. So long!"

"So long!"

"Broadway Vanities of 1921" at Orpheum

THE Orpheum this week comes forward with its "Broadway Vanities," a potpourri of song, comedy and the usual melange which goes to make up a revue performance.

The company consists of two comedians, a leading lady, a chorus, a quartette, and a wife of a piano player. Miss Leading Lady has a sweet, yet effective voice and sings, as one of the songs has it, "Ah'm Crazy About Moonshine," in a most effective (?) manner.

Mr. Youthful Comedian has a good line of nonsense, and a dance that is droll effective. Can't see why they don't have more of him. The Colored Comedian, who talks and talks, is decidedly amusing.

Mr. Tenor Soloist offers "Peggy O'Neil" and "Sweetheart" in a lovely, tho more or less timid manner. The quartette numbers seemed to please the audience, of which I was one.

The scenery and costumes are nicer than you would expect. In fact, the offering (depending, of course, upon your state of mind) is a diverting, amiable and lively one, having several numbers which are more or less familiar.

Same company remains at the Orpheum all this week, changing the program on Thursday afternoon.

If you're in the habit of going to the Orpheum regularly you'll undoubtedly enjoy to the utmost these "Broadway Vanities." No reason why you shouldn't.

Eugene O'Brien in a Sat Eve Post Story

If you were one of the many who read "The Open Door," in the Post recently, you'll like yourself to the Lyric to see Eugene O'Brien in "Is Life Worth Living," which is the screen title of the said story.

Mr. O'Brien who by the way is thing fat and forth, is pleasing in the role of Marlow, the hero, who, acquitted of a crime, finds it hard saying to make both ends meet. A little blue steel firearm enlists his deep attention; he buys it with the intention of ending it all, but time and again he loses his nerve.

He naves it back again and then he sits out again. You see, he can't quite decide whether or not life is worth living. Until he meets the girl—she like himself, is a downy girl, and hasn't the where-withal to buy even a meal (tho she DOES wear a handsome pair of patent hose, girls).

So begins the romance. Up until this point everything had been Eugene O'Brien. Now your interest is divided between him and the beautiful Miss Winifred Westover (you know by this time that she's Mrs. Bill Hart).

Such a time they have, getting back their courage and the desire to be alive but they finally accomplish the feat and they're satisfied.

The author's whimsy of the magazine story, altho many of the author's original ideas are included into the production. The battles are humorous, the photographs are good and there's an excellent supporting cast to be seen, not to mention a clever little dog.

"Is Life Worth Living" may help a lot of you and because it stars Eugene O'Brien, I am positive it is sure to please the vast majority.

The Lyric's program also includes a funny Harold Lloyd comedy, "Over the Fence." That title! Doesn't it suggest Mr. Lloyd in all sorts of hilarious happenings? You guessed it!

SHORT SHAVINGS

Sam Schoonover relates that he went out to Elida last summer and found a merry-go-round holding forth. "I spent the afternoon about it," he said, "but I didn't ride any. I listened to the music."

Russell Strow, barger at the Alexander shop, W. High-st. wondered why others he passed on his way home from work regarded him with such interest. He looked in a mirror and found he was wearing an eye-shade in place of a cap.

T. A. Welsh, former county auditor, now engaged in business in the downtown district, says he made a mistake in picking up a stranger to offer a ride downtown in his automobile. "Before I could get him out," says Welsh, "he told me all the jokes I heard last week at the Orpheum."

END LUMBAGO -With Turpentine

Turpentine drives away lumbago as if by magic! No more stiff, aching back! No more swollen muscles, drawn tendons! Turpentine smooths away the pain. Gets right down deep and drives it out! Almost at once it stops those sharp pains that shoot down your back and side!

New discovery. Turpo, combines all of Turpentine's magic powers with other amazing healing agents. Lumbago, rheumatism, pleurisy, sprains, neuralgia and headache driven out of your system. Turpo also breaks up colds, sore throat, whooping cough and croup. Turpo does not burn, blister, smart or stain and is not greasy or smelly. Has such astonishing penetrative healing power that when rubbed on chest or throat the body absorbs it so quickly and thoroughly that a faint scent can actually be noticed on your breath.

Take that "stitch" out of your back. Straighten up and feel your self again. Ask any druggist for Turpo, the "Turpentine Ointment" containing the other old relatives, Menthol and Camphor. Turpo—50c and 60c a jar. adv
